I am trying to collect the radio button values as it is checked and put the values into a hidden input field, however, I can't seem to pull the id of the item that is being checked from the surrounding tag. I am essentially collecting the values for a playlist and adding them to a hidden input field. I am getting back an array of every element that has a checked value from all the radio buttons, but I also need the id of the radio button for each element. This is what I have:

```
```

I want to train in Manchester to be a nurse or a doctor to help other young people who are in my position." Nothing is too big or too small. That's the way public health nurse Anna McCulloch works - and it's paying off. As a staff nurse at the Peterborough and Stamford health trust, Anna is passionate about helping the most vulnerable people in her community. I spoke to Anna as the trust prepares to launch its campaign to recruit more nurses and doctors in 2016. Less than a year ago, Lucy Oswald became the UK's first graduate of the new degree in workplace health and safety. The Glasgow University graduate graduated in May 2015 and has since trained with leading health and safety firms, working on complex, multi-million pound projects. The Department of Health has announced a public consultation on a new model of care for people with learning disabilities. This could mean that support is tailored to suit a person's needs and the care they want to receive. So how would this new approach work for you? One of the most shocking and unnecessary aspects of our medical system is the sheer lack of respect and regard for older people - including older people with Alzheimer's or other types of dementia. We've found out that A&E doctors aren't always taking dementia seriously. Our latest BBC survey of 2,000 people from across the UK shows that over half of people aged over 75 believe people with dementia should be able to continue to live at home in their own community for as long as possible. Our homes are becoming more connected, but could we be wasting more time online than we realise? Our new BBC study shows that almost a third of us turn to the internet to look up information about health, leisure, household and personal finances. The problem is that too many of us are using these websites in ways that could distract us from other things we need to do.
